Class Poem

As June's light shadows cool the ivied walls
Which sheltered us when winter winds blew strong,
So with this day our going forth recalls
Our other seasons' laughter and their song,
How we have found some wisdom and some truth,
Learning that for the seeker they are near,
And much half-true wise foolishness of youth,
And crystal whims of childhood breaking clear.

This is the song whose splendid last refrain
Rings out so full upon our parting way—
But barren are its words unless we know
Only the heart has soil wherein can grow
These seeds of memory into full grain,
A golden harvest for some autumn day.

The Student Council

The Student Council is composed of twenty-two members who are chosen semi-annually by the student body. The number of councillors is dependent upon the number of pupils, there being one councillor for every twelve boys. The duties of the council are to supervise student activities and to be responsible for the conduct and condition of the dormitories. All doubtful and serious cases of classification are left to its decision, and the general tone of the school life is largely in the hands of the members. Since its formation, the council has well justified the importance with which it is regarded by the student body and the faith placed in its decisions by the faculty.

The association's year, 1931-32, has been one of unprecedented activity in its history. Two projects of importance have been undertaken: the outstanding one is the erection of the new alumni locker wing to the gymnasium, a commodious section to house the lockers of Loomis boys and visiting teams. In it are contained, in addition to the actual locker room, a new shower room, an athletic director's office, and an athletic goods store. The new structure will relieve much of the congestion that has existed in late years in the director's office and in the old combined stationery and athletic goods store in Founders Hall. The new wing reached completion in May, 1932.

The next project of importance was the devoting of three issues of the Log during the year to matters of interest to alumni, and the subsequent mailing of each issue to every alumnus. The plan, to keep alumni in closer touch with current affairs at the school, is one that is not limited to a single year, and, having been successful in its first year of practice, it will be continued into the future.

The record of six defeats made by the 1931 football team is the worst in the history of football at Loomis. The season was brightened, however, by fine individual work and occasional bits of good team-play, but scoring power was lacking.

Tabor came to Loomis for the opening contest and won, 18-0, by means of a well-executed passing attack. The following Saturday the Maroon and Grey could not hold Huntoon of Taft, whose two touchdowns gave his team a 12-0 victory.

Then came a discouraging 7-6 defeat at the hands of Hopkins Grammar, which was partly the result of the disablement of several members of the team. In Choate, Loomis met a championship eleven, undefeated and unscored on, whose varied offense rolled up 33 points. One week later Loomis suffered another 7-6 loss. This time it was to Deerfield, although it outplayed its opponent. The most brilliant playing of the season came in the Berkshire game when Loomis outplayed the Green throughout most of the game, but could not smother Berkshire's aerial attack.

Despite the poor teamwork exhibited during the season, several individual players deserved credit for their work. Captain Sampson and Hamilton starred on the offense, and both Shreve and McGill bolstered the line against the onslaughts of heavier opponents. Many new players received valuable training this season, and, with five returning lettermen as a nucleus, the 1932 team should bring Loomis football back to the heights of 1928.

In the record of games won and lost, the soccer season was second only to that of the championship team of 1929. This is the second time in the history of soccer at Loomis that a Maroon and Grey squad has defeated a majority of its rivals.

Loomis journeyed to Tabor for its first game and lost, 1-0, although it outplayed the home team throughout. Four days later Kingswood was submerged, 3-0. After a week of practice Wilbraham fell before the Maroon and Grey by 1-0. Although Roxbury proved to be the strongest team met so far, Loomis was superior and gained another 1-0 win. Choate, the team's next opponent, displayed a fine passing attack but had to overcome a great Loomis rally to win after two overtime periods. On the following Wednesday Deerfield came to Loomis with a well-balanced aggregation whose ability to convert corner kicks gained it a 4-0 triumph. Loomis reached its peak in the final game, when, by fine all-around work, it sent Taft home on the short end of 3-1 score.

Mr. Whitehead started out with only four lettermen, but these were augmented by Needham and Thackara, who were the stars of the season. Captain Stevens played well at center forward, tying with Thackara for high scorer. There are four lettermen returning in addition to most of a highly successful second team. As a result, Mr. Whitehead will have promising material from which to form a winning combination.

Although handicapped by an unprecedented absence of ice, the Maroon and Grey sextet experienced a good season, winning half of its contests. This record is the best since the season of 1929 and shows a decided improvement in the caliber of Loomis hockey.

With no preliminary practice, Loomis lost to Williston on the Springfield Arena ice in the opening game of the season. As the team could not cover Benton successfully, his four goals gave the Blue and Gold a 4-2 win. The next game, at the Arena also, saw the tables turned with Deerfield the victim. This was the first Loomis triumph in five years over a Big Green six. Pomfret next bowed to the Windsor puckmen through timely scores by Captain Little and W. H. Johnson. Then, in the first games on natural ice, Choate managed to eke out one-point victory. Recovering from the Wallingford disaster, the team came back to subdue Westminster through a last-period goal made by Captain Little in a game marred by rough playing and many penalties. The final contest of the season ended in defeat which resulted from a goal made in the second overtime period by an outplayed Taft sextet.

The outstanding player of the season was Captain Little, who besides being the mainstay of the defense, entered the scoring column frequently. Shreve teamed well with Little on the defense, while Catlin, with little previous experience, starred in front of the nets. The high-powered forward line consisting of next year's Captain-elect Merrill, Sheafe, and W. Johnson was the best seen at Loomis for some time. The prospects for next year are not so favorable, for most of the team is graduating, with the exception of Merrill, Wheeler, and Johnson. With these as a nucleus a winning team may be formed.

Basketball

Roy C. Barker, '32.....Captain
 Mr. Eaton.....Coach

The 1932 basketball team experienced a slightly better season than last year's team, winning two of its ten contests. Many of the games were close throughout and were lost only in the final minutes of play. Though the campaign was outwardly unsuccessful, there will be six returning lettermen for next year's quintet, to say nothing of the members of the successful second team.

The first game was lost to the Trinity junior varsity before Loomis had rounded into shape, and Berkshire, showing a much better team than last year, won the second game by a large margin. The Maroon and Grey dropped the next two encounters to Suffield and Taft by close scores. When Loomis, in the next contest, overwhelmed Kingswood, 35-17, it showed the best form of the season. Choate captured the next game by five points, but the Maroon came back to down Westminster in the following game, 33-30. The last three games were lost to Wesleyan Freshmen, Deerfield, and Wilbraham. Deerfield, the most powerful team of the year to face Loomis, easily won by the overpowering score of 55-23, but the final encounter was lost by only one basket.

Captain Barker was the high scorer with an average of seven points per game, while Coughlin, guard, and next year's captain-elect, was second in piling up points. Kibbe, C. Hall, and Mallory alternated at center, with Warnock and Thompson filling guard positions. Tuttle, French, and Hays took care of the other forward berths.

This year's schedule was the longest since the start of the triangular agreement with Choate and Taft and will probably be lengthened next year. With a veteran team, Coughlin should lead Loomis to a successful season next winter.

Despite the return of four lettermen, the outlook for this year's baseball team is doubtful. Captain Savage will probably bear most of the pitching burden, with Kroll assisting. The mainstay of the team appears to be the infield, consisting of Perry, first base; Catlin, second base; C. Loomis, shortstop, and Parker, third base. The only member of the outfield with any previous experience is Hardy. The rest of the team will be composed of members of last year's highly successful second team. This year the team faces a difficult schedule, but, if the new material develops as well as is expected, the season will be successful.

The 1931 team, headed by Captain Shaw, experienced a mediocre season, winning one and tying one of nine games. After dropping the opener to Suffield, Loomis came back to tie Berkshire in a hectic ten-inning struggle. In the next encounter the team smothered a weak Westminster nine, 17-8. The following six games were lost to strong, aggressive teams from Kent, Hotchkiss, Choate, Deerfield, Roxbury, and Taft.

To "Al" Kroll fell the difficult task of pitching, with Murtha and Harrington making up the receiving end of the battery. Captain Shaw starred consistently at first base, and Mosenthal was the most capable outfielder. O'Neill and Hardy filled the other outfield posts, and Parker, Catlin, and C. Loomis occupied the three infield berths.

THE TRACK SQUAD

Track

Thomas S. Willets, Jr., '32.....	Captain
Herbert McKennis, Jr., '33.....	Manager
Mr. Hoskins, Mr. Pratt, Mr. Whitehead, Mr. Durham
.....	Coaches

The prospects for the 1932 track team are the most favorable in many years. Seven veterans from the championship team of the year before are returning and there seems to be a wealth of new talent available. Captain Willets is the chief hope in the sprints, with two new candidates, N. Anderson and Mowry, showing considerable ability. Lloyd and DeMoulied, both lettermen, will do the long distances again, while R. Johnson, also a letterman, and Anderson are showing great promise in the hurdles. The field events will also be strong, with the veterans, Nimick in the hammer, Little in the discus, Bardeen in the shot and javelin, and Johnson in the shot. Dunning is leading the high jumpers, but strength in the broad jump and pole vault appears doubtful.

Last year's track team made Loomis history by winning two dual and two triangular meets, gaining possession of the Victory Trophy, and placing a close second to Deerfield, which it had previously beaten, in the Amherst Interscholastics. Milton was the first victim, losing by ten points through Captain Longley's last-minute victory in the high jump. Westminster was easily conquered next, and then Loomis went into the triangular meet with Taft and Choate. Again Longley, by a close second in the broad jump, clinched the meet and retired the trophy. Then, in the final encounter, with Deerfield and Williston, the Maroon and Grey gained a decisive victory. At the Amherst Interscholastics, Loomis was shaded by Deerfield by a margin of two points, and took second place.

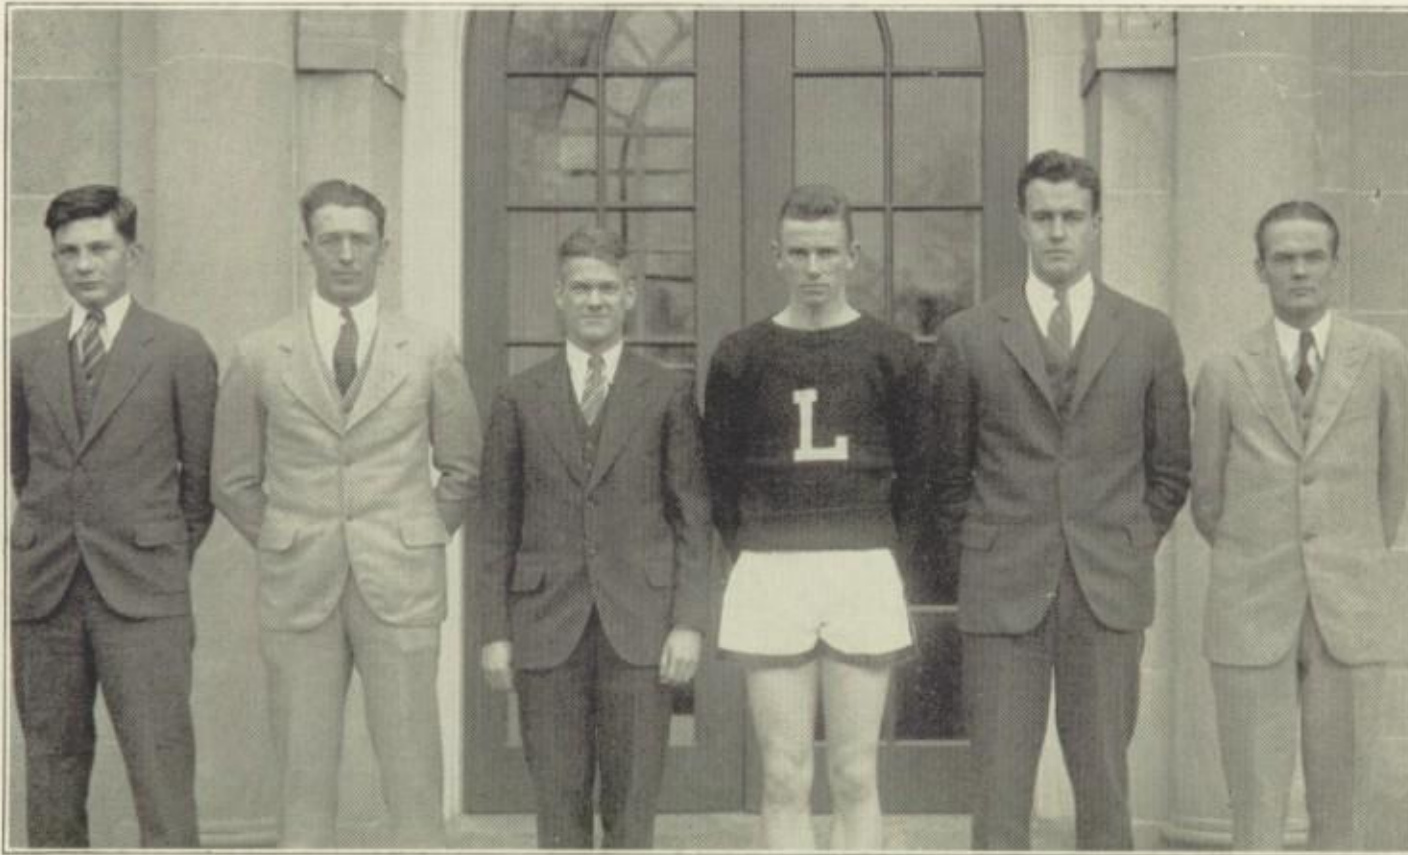

The outstanding feats of an outstanding season were Longley's second in the broad jump against Choate and Taft, Walsh's breaking the shot put record in the same meet, and the relay team's great race against Deerfield, which was lost by inches. Later in the season in a special race the team broke the school record.

The outlook for the tennis team is the most encouraging in several seasons. Two lettermen, Captain Thompson and Tuttle, are returning from last year's team. Whitbeck's place will probably be filled by Thackara, an experienced player, and two former captains, Barker of Bristol and Brewer of Middlesex, will probably gain places on the team. The remaining place will go to some member of the 1931 second team. With this array of experienced talent, the Maroon and Grey courtmen should give all opponents plenty of opposition.

Sharp

Thompson

Mr. Eaton

Last year's team was a marked improvement over that of the year before, winning half of its matches. The Maroon and Grey made a fine beginning by downing the Wesleyan Freshmen and Kent, but then suffered a one-point defeat by Tabor. Next Taft won, 5-2, in a match halted by rain, and Deerfield gained a one-point victory by a win in the final doubles match. Loomis came back in its final match to take an easy triumph over Westminster, 7-2.

Whitbeck, captain for the second time, was easily the star of the Maroon team, winning all his singles matches. Williams, a veteran of the year before, and Nusbaum also played good tennis in the second and third positions, with Bull, Tuttle, and Thompson filling in the other three positions.

The close of the second year of organized fencing at Loomis found the Maroon fencers ranked among the highest, if not the highest, of school-boy, three-weapon teams in the country. This sudden rise was the result of an undefeated season, and the capture of the three-weapon championship of Connecticut. Loomis, for the second year under the leadership of Captain Mitchell, met and defeated the strongest teams in New England, including Yale Freshmen, Andover, and Roxbury.

The acme of success was reached when the foils team of Captain Mitchell, Piffard, and Holcombe took the state championship from a strong field, and a week later, the epee team of Holcombe, Sharp, and Lewison successfully defended the championship won last year.

To Captain Mitchell and Holcombe goes a large share of the credit, not only in actual fencing, but also in building up the morale and conducting all the minor details so necessary to the success of a team. Piffard starred consistently and had the best average on the team. The epee team of Sharp and Lewison was always formidable, and the saber team was everything that could be wished for.

For the first time Loomis was represented in interscholastic competition by a cross country team. The Maroon and Grey harriers, in winning two of the three meets, upheld the reputation of Loomis prowess in track athletics, established by the championship track team of 1931.

Mr. Durham and Mr. Colton, the coaches, started the season with only a small group of enthusiasts. A meet with Choate was arranged, thus stimulating greater interest in the sport. Loomis completely outclassed the Blue and Gold runners, winning by a large margin. Although weakened by the loss of two valuable runners, Raoul and Hare, the team captured the triangular meet with Choate and Hillhouse High of New Haven. Their absence was also felt in the last meet, which Weaver High of Hartford won, 26-32.

Captain DeMoulpied and Merrill were undefeated in all meets, the former setting a new mark in the final race of 12 minutes and 42 seconds for the Loomis course. Beneker and D. H. Davis, the other two lettermen, were steady, dependable runners, while a group of younger aspirants will aid the three returning lettermen in next year's meets.

This year's rifle team, captained by Matt Browning, had only one meet because of the scarcity of time for practice. However, in this one meet the team overcame Kingswood by the score of 955 to 929, with Captain Browning leading the team with a total of 98 out of a possible 100.

This year saw a new convenience for the riflemen which did away with the cramped quarters in the attic of Founders. Browning's father presented the school with a modern rifle range, located in one of the vacant chicken coops on the farm, which greatly improved the facilities for shooting.

For the forthcoming year, with Mr. Cloud for adviser and coach, the team will probably engage in the weekly matches in the National Junior Rifle Association.

The entire team will be returning next year and this, together with the opportunities offered by membership in the National Junior Rifle Association and the new shooting range, should lead to a team of outstanding ability.

In the spring of 1930 several students proposed a Student Endowment Fund Campaign, and a committee was organized to take charge of the raising of $2,500 during the year 1930-31. Boys were requested to bring back a few dollars from the summer vacation, and at the beginning of the fall term a candy and ice cream store was opened in Founders under the management of the fellows on the committee. Also the Dramatic Club and the Darwin Club both gave part of the proceeds of their entertainments to the committee. At the end of the year, by a unanimous vote of the student body, it was decided to continue the program for five years.

During the summer of 1931 new athletic fields were laid out and graded west of the infirmary, and when the fellows returned in the fall the large expanse of green fields was tangible evidence of where the money which they had contributed had gone.

This year the store, which proved so successful last year, was run again, and the boys were asked to bring back a few dollars from vacation. This year's goal was again $2,500 and will also go toward the new fields.

The activities of the Darwin Club during the past year have been of a sort in which both the various divisions and the club as a whole have participated. The Natural History division kept the aquarium in the club room stocked and did bird study work in the spring. The gun division, greatly aided by the new rifle range, sponsored a team which held several meets with other schools. The club photographers maintained the dark room in Warham and did much good work in their particular field. As the work of the aviation division required more time than its members could afford to use, this section of the club was discontinued by vote of the executive committee early in the year.

Every member of the club took a working interest in the main project of the year, which was the Darwin Club Carnival, given for the benefit of the endowment fund, and held in the gymnasium on April 9. Games of chance and skill, combined with the Jazz Orchestra and a food booth, provided entertainment for all who came. Another project was a cabin, built by club members, on the Loomis plantation, which was visited on overnight hikes during the spring term.

The Dramatic Club gave, as its first presentation of the year, "Prohibition", which was under the direction of M. Chéruey and was produced in connection with the Cercle Français. It was given partly in French and partly in English in order to make it entirely understandable to everybody.

In December a Christmas pageant was given in the chapel. Although a pageant had not been given for several years, it proved so successful that it will probably be repeated in subsequent years.

As part of the program on the week-end of the Senior dance, "The Crimson Coconut" was given. Although it had been given only a few years ago and some of the boys had seen it before, it was received very well and the leading rôle, played by Gary Merrill, caused everybody much amusement.

As its final production of the season the club gave "Cappy Ricks" as a dramatic reading with Bill Morris playing the lead. This was the first time that such a reading had ever been given. The fact that the play consisted of three acts necessitated the reading of it, and, although it seemed doubtful as to whether it would be a success or not, the majority of the school enjoyed it highly.

As last year, the Glee Club did not enter the interscholastic concert in New York. As a result, it was free to study various types of selections which, under the regulations of the New York contest, would have been prohibited. It made its first appearance as part of the program for the week-end of the Senior dance and presented several songs, each representing a different kind of music. In March the club appeared in a combined recital with Hotchkiss, Taft, Deerfield, and Choate at Bushnell Memorial in Hartford. The whole school was transported to Hartford by buses to hear this concert, and in the opinion of the listeners Loomis was second only to Deerfield, although there was no competition.

The next appearance of the Glee Club was to have been at a joint concert with St. Margaret's School at Windsor. This, however, was called off on account of the numerous cases of scarlet fever at school.

The Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Card, was larger and more proficient than ever this year. It also appeared at Bushnell and played, together with the orchestras of the other schools, with Mr. Card holding the baton.

The Chess Club experienced even more success this year than it did last year. As before, a team was organized under the guidance and supervision of Mr. Mather which up to this time has not suffered a defeat. Kingswood, Deerfield, Choate, and Taft have all been conquered. Ryder was the outstanding player, having played on the team for two years and never been defeated.

Considerable interest was shown in the fall chess tournament and there ought to be good prospects for another championship team next year. Ryder, who plays first board, will be back, and also Piffard, who plays third man. The others on the team were: Stilmar, second; Boyd, fourth; Pappenheimer, fifth, and Jack Welsh, sixth.

Since the schedule of matches has not yet been completed, the season cannot yet be called championship, but to all appearances the team should go through the remaining matches without a defeat.

The Cercle Français was organized to further interest in France and the French language at Loomis. It is called "The Alan Seeger Cercle Français" in memory of the American poet who endeared himself to the French people by giving his life for them during the World War.

The club's aim is to give an opportunity to its members to practice conversational French, in the belief that classroom work does not give adequate time to this important side of language study. Short talks on French student and professional life, reading from plays by the members, and lively arguments on French and European politics constitute the conversation.

Because of a somewhat loosely constructed organization, the club was reorganized during the year and a new constitution was adopted. Discussions of this measure took up much of the time.

As in former years, to enable the members to show their progress in spoken French, a short one-act play, "Prohibition", was produced at Thanksgiving.

The Art Club, formed this year through the efforts of Mme. Chérut and a few enterprising members of the Art Class, was established primarily for students taking the courses in art and freehand drawing. However, because of the rising interest in art which has spread throughout the school, the range of applicants for membership has been extended so that the whole school is eligible for membership, provided they show an appreciable interest in the subject and can satisfactorily fulfill the entrance requirements.

The purpose of the club is mainly to stimulate an interest in art. The club has sponsored several small expositions of posters, drawings and etchings during the year, and also attended a few larger exhibitions.

Probably the greatest step taken by the club to stimulate the interest of the rest of the school were the current event talks given by Mme. Chérut, members of the club, and an outside lecturer. The club's commendable aim was also much furthered by a lecture with slides given by Mr. Lorado Taft, the sculptor. The club is looking forward to another such successful year, and hopes even to make greater strides towards the full accomplishment of their purpose.

The Political Club

Charles W. Lloyd, '32.....	President
Cleveland Bissell, '33.....	Secretary-Treasurer
Mr. Hoskins.....	Faculty Adviser

The activeness of the Political Club may be attributed to the fact that its membership is limited to fifteen upperclassmen. This restriction makes it possible for each member of the club to take an individual interest in the activities of the club. At the meetings matters of current political and economic importance are discussed. As a rule one member, after having previously investigated the topic at hand, leads the discussion. The other members then join in and discuss the subject, asking either the leader or Mr. Hoskins questions.

The high spot of the year was the debate with Deerfield on March 10th. Our team, composed of Perry, Whitaker, and Irons, upheld the affirmative side of the resolution that Japan is justified in her use of armed force in Manchuria. Several fellows came out for the team, and the competition for the three places was keen. As the Loomiscellany goes to press, a home-and-home debate is being arranged with Taft.

During the past year interest in the presidential campaign, the 72nd congress, the Manchurian situation, and world affairs in general became wide-spread and the club's activities particularly interesting, not only to members of the club, but also to the school as a whole.

Junto

Cadwallader Benedict, '32.....President

Thomas S. Willets, Jr., '32.....Vice President

Junto is an organization of which every student at Loomis is automatically a member. Attendance at the Sunday evening meetings is entirely optional. Junto's work lies in two fields: one concerned with Junto at school, and the other with the dispensing of the dues as a financial aid for worthy institutions.

In former years the Junto meetings were addressed by some visiting speaker. However, as it was found that a desired informality could not be attained in this sort of gathering, the meetings during the past year were largely informal discussion groups with a master around the fire in each dormitory. Later in the year the meetings were held by classes. The Seniors, meeting with Mr. B. in his library, held a series of interesting and helpful discussions on college problems.

Over six hundred dollars, representing the accumulation of small pledges from each boy, were given to worthy institutions and schools. Among these were the Tuskegee, Hampton, and Laurinburg Institutes for colored students; the Hindman Settlement School for white children in the Kentucky mountains; and nearer home, the Newington Home for Crippled Children, the Connecticut Junior Republic, and the Hartford Community Chest.

Der Deutsche Verein

J. W. Bissell, '32.....President

Mr. Whittier.....Faculty Adviser

Der Deutsche Verein is an organization devoted to the furtherance of a knowledge of Germany, its language and its customs, and, more particularly, to the development of a greater ease in conversation in German. Restricted in membership, because of the small but increasing number of fellows studying German, it renders the meetings more informal and permits the members to take a larger share in the discussions. In the early part of the year, the second of the club's existence, moving pictures of German scenes were shown by Mr. Barnes at one of the meetings, but more generally the programs were in the nature of a dialogue which two of the members prepared themselves. Mr. Whittier supplemented the programs by readings from some of the greater German literary works. Later in the year, the practice was added of having a talk by some one fellow in English on some phase of German history. This form of program constituted the only form of departure from the custom of having the assigned part of the meetings exclusively in German. With several new members joining the club this spring, it is hoped that next year will prove as highly successful as has the present one.

The club system under which the student body was three years ago divided into three clubs, Allyn, Wolcott, and Ludlow, has replaced the old dormitory system of intramural athletics and scholarship competition. Under the new system the school has been equally divided by putting every third member of the school in the same group. Thus uneven and unfair competition has been done away with, and games have been played on a more even basis.

The cup for the winner in the competition went last year to Allyn, and the year before Ludlow carried off the honors.

This year, at the last checkup before the Loomiscellany went to press, Allyn was leading, having won the scholarship prize and placed second to Ludlow in fall and winter athletics. Each club, at the halfway mark was left with a fairly even chance of winning at the end of the year, Allyn having the advantage.

Also, as another innovation, one orchestra was engaged to play for all three dances. This proved both cheaper and more satisfactory, since the orchestra could be counted on to be good.

Both the Football and Senior dances have been highly successful, and the Junior Prom gives every evidence of being the best affair this year.

PUBLICATIONS

THE PUBLICATIONS BOARD

The Publications Board

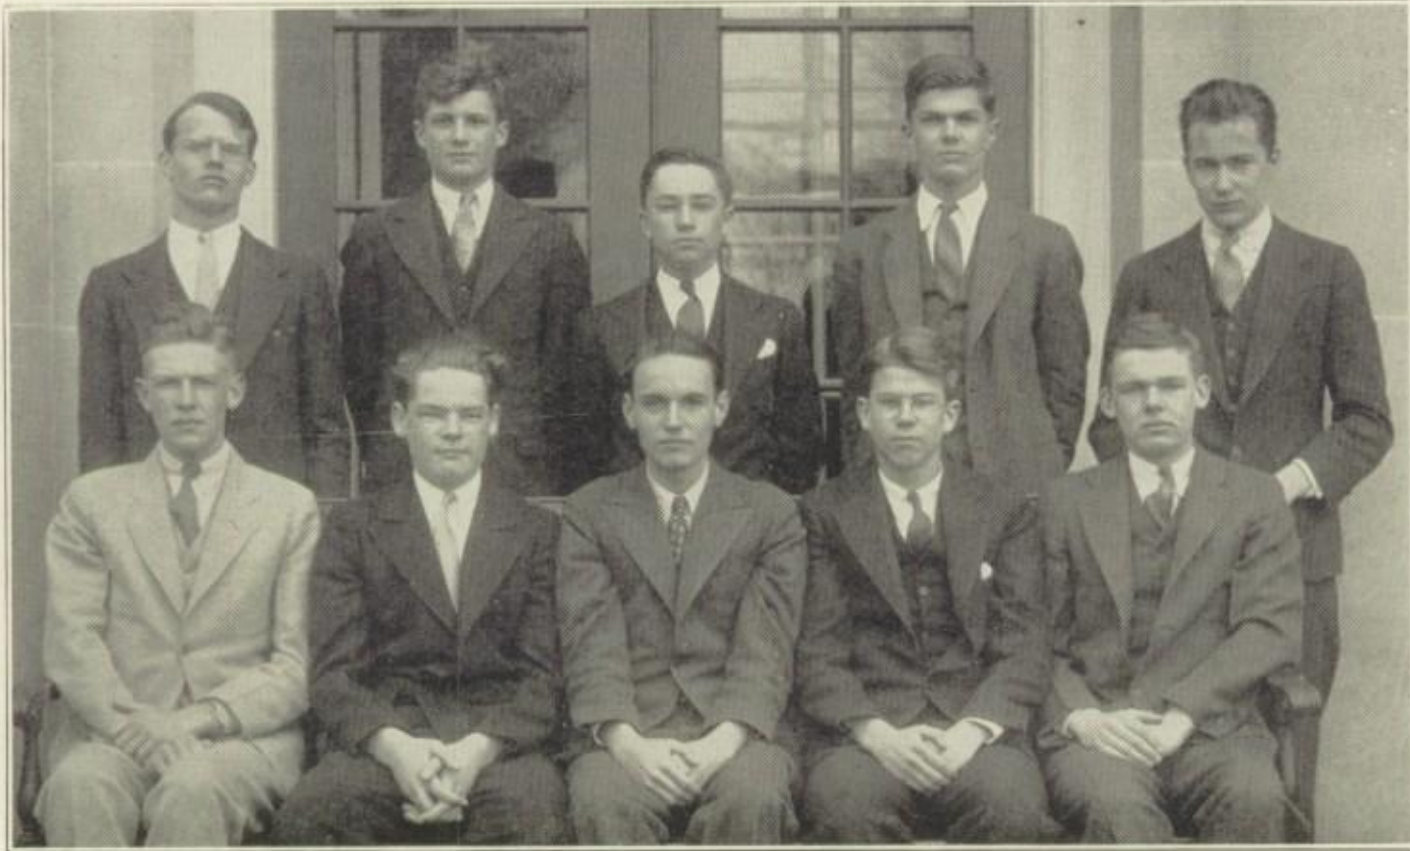

Burroughs Mitchell, '32.....Chairman

Francis N. McInerney, '32.....Secretary

The Publications Board, founded in 1921 with F. L. Middlebrook as its first chairman, is composed of the Log, Loomiscellany, and Loom, and has as its main purpose the keeping of the three publications in closer harmony, and discouraging rivalry in regard to advertising. It also serves as a restraining influence on too radical or expensive movements on the part of any sub-board. In former years members were first elected to the Publications Board and then appointed to a sub-board. However, by a vote of all the sub-boards, this system was reversed, giving the sub-boards the right to elect their own members.

This year's Log, after recovering from the depths of former years, has witnessed the most successful season since 1924. Despite the times, and the scarcity of advertising material, the Log has come through with a clean slate financially. The Loomiscellany, a little harder hit by the depression, has been forced to cut the Seniors down to two per page. This cut, however, has eliminated Senior write-ups, which, in many cases, have been considered superficial during the past three years. The Loom has produced three issues during the current year. The first was a poetry issue, George Winship's essay on Carl Sandburg being the outstanding contribution; the second issue, published in March, was made up largely of prize short stories, Robert Thompson's "Finitchka" being awarded first prize as an excellent example of school-boy writing. The third issue, which made its appearance late in April, dealt largely with the drama, containing the prize-winning contribution in the play-writing contest.

Officers for the next year's board are elected annually at a banquet held at the Hotel Heublein in Hartford. At this time speeches are made by retiring officers, and the accomplishments of the past year are reviewed. It is expected that this year's banquet will take place about the middle of May.

This year, for the second time, the Loom made its appearance as a literary supplement to the Log, three issues being published during the course of the year. Wood-cuts were introduced this year for the first time, serving to illustrate the stories which appeared in the March issue.

The first number, which appeared in December, was made up almost entirely of poetry and poetic prose. George Winship's essay on Sandburg was the paper's highest claim to fame, as it may be used as an introduction to Sandburg's new book. C. Benedict's poem, "Thoughts by a Fire", was also regarded worthy enough for republication by a contemporary school literary magazine. The second issue, coming out in March, contained the three prize-winners in the short-story contest. Robert Thompson's "Finitchka", C. Benedict's "Return", and Burroughs Mitchell's "Accident Call", were awarded prizes in the order mentioned. Each of these stories was illustrated by wood-cuts done by C. Bissell. The last number of the year contained the prize-winning play in the play-writing contest, the winner of which had not been yet decided when the Loomiscellany went to press.

The Handbook is issued yearly at the beginning of the fall term, and is given free of charge to every Loomis student. The purpose of this publication is to present to the new student, in clear and concise form, the essential knowledge of school rules, customs, and activities, and to familiarize him with the campus, buildings, and traditions of Loomis. The extra-curriculum activities, such as clubs and athletics, are individually and briefly discussed in the Handbook.

These features, combined with schedule blanks, space to record marks, dance programs, memorandum pages, and athletic records, serve to make this little book a useful one for reference, and a helpful companion for the old as well as the new fellows throughout the year. Pages listing faculty, student council, songs, cheers, and daily appointments are also included.

The Handbook is a strictly self-supporting publication, and is entirely independent of the Publications Board.

DIARY

SEPTEMBER

School, to the great joy of some, delayed opening on account of the infantile epidemic. So it was not until the twenty-fifth that, augmented by ninety-two new faces among the students and six among the masters, school began. This enrollment of over three hundred was the greatest in school history. But classes began immediately. Immediately Mr. Pratt and Mr. Stiles issued a call for gridiron warriors; and Mr. Whitehead sent his soccer devotees through their first workout.

OCTOBER

The first dark cloud arrived in the news that Mr. Wilder, a former Loomis master, had lost his life in a canoe accident. The football and soccer teams, in their first public appearance, were shut out by Tabor's more experienced combinations. Taft also took the measure of the Loomis eleven by 12-0 in a hard-fought game, but Thackara's pair of goals vanquished Kingswood in soccer. Wilbraham's booters also bowed to the Maroon and Grey, but the Hopkins Grammar eleven cast gloom over the campus by taking a 7-6 decision in a crushing, defensive game. The following week the school received one of its three musical treats of the year, a concert by the Stradivarius Quartet, arranged with the co-operation of the National Music League.

Now the month was working up to an unique climax. The first hint of anything unusual was the midnight excursion of a cow about the Senior path, ably assisted by a mounted cowboy and a dozen energetic herders on foot. Then, after hoarsely demanding, on Friday night, to "Beat Choate", time and time again in one of the most enthusiastic, vigorous football rallies ever held at Loomis, the school awoke in the dim light and saw on the misty Senior path six faculty cars drawn up in neat array, the middle one flaunting the great white banner with the inscription, "Beat Choate", well within the sacred Senior precincts. But all to no avail. Choate's championship eleven skirted the end and passed its way to a crushing triumph. Then the school went to have their old friend, Mr. Erdman Harris, solace their grief with his usual fine program.

NOVEMBER

The Choate jinx continued. The soccer team lost in an overtime contest. It remained for a new organization, the cross country team, formed through the enthusiasm of a handful of boys and the encouragement of Mr. Durham and Mr. Colton, to break the steady succession of Choate triumphs, outrunning the Wallingford harriers to capture an easy victory. Hard luck again hit the football team, which outrushed Deerfield, but lost by a single point. Now the steady procession of athletic events ceased for a while and the school found itself in the throes of quarterly examinations. Enough said. The return to normalcy was speedily accomplished, although not without some casualties. Athletics continued in the doldrums, Deerfield's accomplished soccer team smothering the Maroon and Grey, Berkshire winning by a large score despite a glorious, fighting finish by Captain Sampson's men, which was the high-light of the entire disastrous season.

The last half of November was notable for the remarkable fighting finish of Captain Stevens's soccer team, which won from Taft in one of the finest exhibitions of soccer ever seen at Loomis. The infant sport of cross-country continued apace, stimulated by winning the triangular meet with Choate and Hillhouse High. The club teams, both Ludlow aggregations, which had won their league series, were rewarded for their season's work by encountering, disastrously, various Westminster secondary squads. Now Thanksgiving approached with the traditional tussle on the path, the traditional faculty soccer game, the traditional turkey dinner, and later, in the evening, the faculty play, and the adventures of Mr. C. A. Pratt, Californian miner pro tem., in a sleeping car.

DECEMBER

The last month of the year started off with a bang, the great event being the football dance. The disasters of the past season were forgotten in the revelry and the occasion proved to be one of the best of its kind in some years, leaving many in a sentimental state for some days afterward. Basketball started at once. The fencers practiced for their future victories. The hockey players quietly commenced their long, long wait for ice. Mr. W. W. Ellsworth, a frequent visitor at Loomis, gave one of the best lectures heard at school in a long time, on the topic of the "Victorian Age". Then arrived the Loomis Christmas, characterized by Mr. B.'s reading of the "Christmas Carol" in the library, the unusually fine pageant presented by the Dramatic Club, and the Yule log. The gaiety was soon over and within four days the campus became silent again.

Diary (Continued)

JANUARY

Back again streamed the school from its Christmas festivities to the routine of school existence. Soon the hockey team had taken up again its wait for ice. Meanwhile, Mr. Alton Blackington entertained with reminiscences of his hectic newspaper experiences, and the arrival of new movie equipment caused great joy to the school's cinema-goers. Now ensued a period of unseasonal warmth which caused the wonder of all and the despair of the hockey team. It even induced some adventurous spirits to take out of their hiding places javelins and weights and cast them about the landscape. The winter athletics swung into an unimpressive start with the basketball team losing its first two encounters to the Trinity Junior Varsity and Berkshire, as the puckmen were dropping a close game to Williston. The fencers, however, broke the succession of defeats with a surprise triumph over the mighty Yale Freshmen.

Suffield won from a crippled Maroon and Grey five in a rough game. In the meantime, the trustees authorized the construction of a new $30,000 locker building. Then came the event of the year. The stock barn of the Loomis Institute was discovered by various alert students to be on fire one damp night. They aroused the others and all rushed to the scene to assist in rescuing the herd, and carting inflammables to a safe spot. Then, to complete one of the wildest nights in school history, they stayed to see the firemen keep the raging flames from spreading. In quite a different mood was Harold Bauer's concert the following afternoon, the second musical feature of the year. Then came the dread mid-year exams, days of horror and woe.

FEBRUARY

The unpracticed sextet caused a stir by downing the Big Green of Deerfield, the first win from them in five years, which was but slightly dispelled by Taft's basketball victory in one of the tensest, most exciting games ever played on the Loomis court. The five finally snapped its losing streak at the expense of Kingswood, but could not cope with Choate. The fencers could, however, and won easily. The basketball and hockey teams courted victory with success, Westminster and Pomfret being the victims. Just at this time the construction work on the locker room began. Now came the mid-winter festivities, the Senior Prom, the hockey triumph over Westminster, the Glee Club's first appearance, and a general pleasant week-end. Captain Barker's quintet and Captain Little's sextet closed their seasons with close defeats, while the fencers won two more.

MARCH

The fencers continued winning, Roxbury being the victim. The Glee Club gave a good performance in the annual concert in Hartford. The fencers won again. The Senior informal basketball series began with serious personal results to several dignified upperclassmen. The Loomis faculty quintet started its outside series. Lorado Taft gave an unusually interscholastic championship and, by defeating Hopkins, finished their V. L. Granville entertained with his dramatic interpretations. This week-end marked, with success, the inauguration of the Senior tea dances.

Deerfield's trio of debaters proved itself more persuasive than Loomis and profited accordingly. Meanwhile, the fencers won the Connecticut interscholastic championship and by defeating Hopkins, finished their season undefeated. The term ended with the usual gym exhibition and soon the dormitories were deserted.

APRIL

On returning, the school proceeded to lose all its money to the various inducements that the annual Darwin Club Carnival offered, which was aiding the prospering Student Endowment Fund. Next came the horrors of quarterly exams and, of a less serious nature, the annual flood, which made the Island live up to its name for a week. The track enthusiasts, remembering the traditions of the glorious 1931 team, turned out, nearly eighty strong. Baseball and tennis, facing a more successful season, drew a great number of participants, as the new athletic fields have been prepared for us.

The month was marked by the third musical treat of the year, a violin concert by Bernard Ocko. Then Mr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, gave his conception of an ideal college as typified by his own institution. The Dramatic Club presented the three-act play, "Cappy Ricks", the first long play given at Loomis in several years. The ominous shadow of scarlet fever enveloped the school, causing general conster-

LOOMIS

An endowed school offering progressive studies preparatory to business, scientific, and academic colleges, with practical work for pupils who do not intend to enter college. The provision of one instructor to every ten pupils insures individual attention. All pupils share in the useful labor of the school. Careful attention is given to personal habits, good manners, and the spirit of hospitality. Much of the government of the school is in the hands of a Student Council, elected entirely by the pupils, and every effort is made to cultivate self reliance and individual initiative. The near vicinity of Hartford affords rare advantages in medical attendance and opportunities to hear good music.

The school buildings are all new and fireproof. Founders Hall, completed in 1916, contains chapel with three-manual organ, library, study, laboratories, classrooms, music studio, and offices. It has indirect electric light, steam heat, and modern ventilating system. Large, airy gymnasium, three athletic fields, hockey pond and Farmington river afford facilities for all sports. The school farm of one hundred acres provides milk and cream produced under ideal conditions. The investment in buildings and grounds is upward of $1,000,000, yet an endowment of $2,500,000 permits a rate of $900 a year. Several scholarships are available for especially deserving pupils.
